- (ii) where at least some of that treatment is provided, or is intended to be provided, for the purposes of the NHS.”

This amendment replaces the definition of “mental health unit” with a new definition which clarifies that a unit may form part of a hospital. Member’s explanatory statement

This amendment ensures that “treatment for the purposes of the NHS” is read in accordance with the National Health Service Act 2006. It also makes a change which is consequential on the removal of care homes from the definition of “mental health unit” (see Amendment 2).

★ Clause 13, page 7, line 20, leave out subsections (1) and (2) and insert—

“(1) If a police officer is going to a mental health unit on duty that involves assisting staff who work in that unit, the officer must take a body camera if reasonably practicable.

(1A) While in a mental health unit on duty that involves assisting staff who work in that unit, a police officer who has a body camera there must wear it and keep it operating at all times when reasonably practicable.

(1B) Subsection (1A) does not apply if there are special circumstances at the time that justify not wearing the camera or keeping it operating.

(1C) A failure by a police officer to comply with the requirements of subsection (1) or (1A) does not of itself make the officer liable to criminal or civil proceedings.

(1D) But if those requirements appear to the court or tribunal to be relevant to any question arising in criminal or civil proceedings, they must be taken into account in determining that question.”

Member's explanatory statement

This amendment brings the effect of failing to wear or use a body camera into line with contraventions of the PACE codes, and takes into account whether it is reasonably practicable and whether particular circumstances justify not wearing or using a camera.

Member’s explanatory statement

The subject-matter of this clause is covered by existing provision, in particular the Data Protection Act 1998 and guidance issued by the Information Commissioner’s Office. The Clause is not consistent with that provision, and would create extra burdens for the police.

Mr Steve Reed
