NC1

To move the following Clause—

“National Security definition

When assessing a risk to national security, the Secretary of State may have regard to factors including, but not restricted to—

- (a) whether the trigger event risks enabling a hostile actor to gain control of a crucial supply chain, obtain access to sensitive sites, corrupt processes

- or systems, conduct espionage, exert inappropriate leverage or engage in any other action which may undermine national security;
- (b) whether the trigger event adversely impacts the UK’s capability and capacity to maintain economic security;
 - (c) the potential impact of the trigger event on the UK’s defence capabilities and interests;
 - (d) the potential impact of the trigger event on the transfer of sensitive data, technology or know-how outside of the UK;
 - (e) the characteristics of the acquirer, including its jurisdiction of incorporation and proximity to any state;
 - (f) the potential impact of the trigger event on the security of the UK’s critical national infrastructure;
 - (g) whether the acquirer in respect of a trigger event has a history of compliance with UK and other applicable law;
 - (h) the potential impact of the trigger event on the UK’s international interests and obligations, including with respect to the protection of human rights and climate risk; and
 - (i) the potential of the trigger event to involve or facilitate illicit activities, including terrorism, organised crime and money laundering.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause specifies a number of factors which the Secretary of State may consider when assessing a risk to national security.

Peter Grant

NC2

To move the following Clause—

“Report on impact on Small to Medium Enterprises

Not later than 18 months after the day on which this Act receives Royal Assent, the Secretary of State must lay before Parliament—

- (a) a report setting out the impacts the Act has had on Small to Medium Enterprises and early-stage ventures, and
- (b) guidance for Small to Medium Enterprises and early-stage ventures on complying with the provisions of this Act.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause would require the Government to produce a report setting out the impacts of this legislation on Small to Medium Enterprises and early-stage ventures, and to produce relevant guidance.

NC3

To move the following Clause—

“Grace period for SMEs

For the purposes of section 32, a person has a reasonable excuse if—

- (a) the entity concerned is a Small to Medium Enterprise;
- (b) this Act has been in force for less than six months.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause creates a grace period whereby – for alleged offences committed under Section 32 – Small to Medium Enterprises would have a ‘reasonable excuse’ if the alleged offence was committed within the first six months after the Bill’s passage.

NC4

To move the following Clause—

“Complaints procedure

- (1) The Secretary of State shall by regulations set up a formal complaints procedure through which acquirers may raise complaints about the procedures followed during the course of an assessment under this Act.
- (2) Complaints as set out in subsection (1) may be made to a Procedural Officer, who—
 - (a) must not have been involved in the assessment and who is to consider significant procedural complaints relating to this section or another part of this Act; and
 - (b) may determine or settle complaints in accordance with regulations to be published by the Secretary of State within 3 months of this Bill becoming an Act.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause would require the Secretary of State to establish a formal complaints procedure for acquirers.

NC5

☆ To move the following Clause—

“High- and low-risk acquirers

- (1) The Secretary of State shall set out in writing descriptions of high risk and low risk acquirers by reference to the characteristics of those persons and their actual or potential hostility to the UK’s national security and national interest, and based on regular multi-agency reviews.
- (2) Acquirers who meet the description of a high risk acquirer under subsection (1) must be subject to greater scrutiny by the Secretary of State in the carrying out of the Secretary of State’s functions under this Act.
- (3) Acquirers who meet the description of a low risk acquirer under subsection (1) must be subject to lesser scrutiny by the Secretary of State in the carrying out of the Secretary of State’s functions under this Act.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause would require the Secretary of State to maintain a list of hostile actors, including potential hostile states, and allied actors to allow differential internal scrutiny to be applied, based on the characteristics of the actors linked to the acquirer.

NC6

☆ To move the following Clause—

“Access to information relevant to national security

- (1) The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision for the call-in power under section 1 to be exercisable by the Secretary of State in respect of circumstances where a person acquires access to, or the right of access to, sensitive information but does not acquire control of an entity within the meaning of section 8 or control of an asset within the meaning of section 9.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, sensitive information means information of any form or description the disclosure of which may give rise to a risk to national security.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause would allow the Secretary of State to regulate to include new trigger events, where a person has access to information relevant to national security, even if the party does not acquire control or material influence over a qualifying asset or entity as a result of an investment.

NC7

☆ To move the following Clause—

“Annual report to the Intelligence and Security Committee

- (1) The Secretary of State must, in relation to each relevant period –
 - (a) prepare a report in accordance with this section, and
 - (b) provide a copy of it to the Intelligence and Security Committee of Parliament as soon as is practicable after the end of that period.
- (2) Each report must provide, in respect of mandatory and voluntary notifications, trigger events called-in, and final orders given, details of—
 - (a) the jurisdiction of the acquirer and its incorporation;
 - (b) the number of state-owned entities and details of states of such entities;
 - (c) the nature of national security risks posed in transactions for which there were final orders;
 - (d) details of particular technological or sectoral expertise that were being targeted; and
 - (e) any other information the Secretary of State may deem instructive on the nature of national security threats uncovered through reviews undertaken under this Act.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause would provide the Intelligence and Security Committee with information about powers exercised under this Act, allowing closer scrutiny and monitoring.
