NC1

To move the following Clause—

“Review of Ofcom’s capacity and capability to undertake duties

The Secretary of State must, not later than 12 months after the day on which this Act is passed, lay before Parliament a report on Ofcom’s capacity and capability to undertake its duties under this Act.”

Chi Onwurah
Christian Matheson
Catherine West
Mr Kevan Jones
Feryal Clark

NC2

To move the following Clause—

“Reporting to Parliament

- (1) The Secretary of State must produce an annual report for the Intelligence and Security Committee of Parliament concerning—
 - (a) designated vendor directions made under section 105Z1 of the Communications Act 2003 (inserted by section 15 of this Act); and
 - (b) designation notices issued under section 105Z8 of the Communications Act 2003 (inserted by section 16 of this Act).
- (2) The report must contain an assessment of the national security risks underpinning the directions and notices made under those sections.
- (3) Ofcom must produce an annual report for the Intelligence and Security Committee of Parliament—
 - (a) assessing the adequacy of existing security measures within UK public electronic communication networks and services; and
 - (b) assessing future threats to the security of those networks and services.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause introduces a requirement for the Secretary of State to report to Parliament on the impact of vendor designation on national security risks. It also requires Ofcom to produce a forward looking report on future threats to network security and undertake an assessment of the adequacy of existing measures.

NC4

To move the following Clause—

“Network diversification

- (1) The Secretary of State must publish an annual report on the impact of progress of the diversification of the telecoms supply chain on the security of public electronic communication networks and services.
- (2) The report required by subsection (1) must include an assessment of the effect on the security of those networks and services of—
 - (a) progress in network diversification set against the diversification strategy;
 - (b) likely changes in ownership or trading position of existing market players;
 - (c) new areas of market consolidation and diversification risk including the cloud computing sector;
 - (d) measures taken to implement the diversification strategy; and
 - (e) the public funding which is available for diversification.
- (3) The Secretary of State must lay the report before Parliament.
- (4) A Minister of the Crown must, not later than two months after the report has been laid before Parliament, make a motion in the House of Commons in relation to the report.”

Member's explanatory statement

This new clause requires the Secretary of State to report on the impact of the Government's diversification strategy on the security of telecommunication networks and services, and to allow for a debate in the House of Commons on the report.

NC6

★ To move the following Clause—

“Network diversification (No.2)

- (1) The Communications Act 2003 is amended as follows.
- (2) After section 105Z29 insert—

“105Z30 Network diversification

- (1) The Secretary of State must lay before Parliament an annual report on the impact of progress of the diversification of the telecommunications supply chain on the security of public electronic communications networks and services.
- (2) The report required by subsection (1) must include an assessment of the effect on the security of those networks and services of—
 - (a) progress in network diversification set against the most recent telecommunications diversification strategy presented to Parliament by the Secretary of State;
 - (b) likely changes in ownership or trading position of existing market players;
 - (c) new areas of market consolidation and diversification risk including the cloud computing sector;
 - (d) measures taken to implement the most recent telecommunications diversification strategy presented to Parliament by the Secretary of State;
 - (e) the public funding which is available for telecommunications diversification.
- (3) A Minister of the Crown must, not later than two months after a report has been laid before Parliament under this section, make a motion in the House of Commons in relation to the report.””

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause requires the Secretary of State to report on the impact of the Government’s diversification strategy as it relates to the security of telecommunications networks and services, and to allow for a debate in the House of Commons on the report.

Mr Kevan Jones

NC7

★ To move the following Clause—

“Review of Ofcom’s capacity and capability to undertake duties (No.2)

- (1) The Communications Act 2003 is amended as follows.
- (2) After section 105Z29 insert—

“105Z30 Review of Ofcom’s capacity and capability to undertake duties

The Secretary of State must, not later than 12 months after the day on which the Telecommunications (Security) Act 2021 is passed, lay before Parliament a report on Ofcom’s capacity and capability to undertake its duties under this Act in relation to the security of public electronic communications networks and services.”

Member’s explanatory statement

This new clause would require the Secretary of State to report on Ofcom’s capacity and capability to undertake the duties provided for in the Telecommunications (Security) Bill which would be inserted into the Communications Act 2003 under the cross-heading “Security of public electronic communications networks and services” (which would encompass all the clause numbers which start with 105).
