“Report on redress for individual complaints

- (1) The Secretary of State must publish a report assessing options for dealing with appeals about complaints made under section 17 of this Act.
- (2) The report must—
  - (a) provide a general update on the fulfilment of duties about complaints procedures which apply in relation to all regulated user-to-user services;
  - (b) assess which body should be responsible for a system to deal with appeals in cases where a complainant considers that a complaint has not been satisfactorily dealt with; and
  - (c) provide options for how the system should be funded, including consideration of whether an annual surcharge could be imposed on user-to-user services.

- (3) The report must be laid before Parliament within six months of the commencement of section 17.”

Sir William Cash

NC2

To move the following Clause—

“Offence of failing to comply with a relevant duty

- (1) The provider of a service to whom a relevant duty applies commits an offence if the provider fails to comply with the duty.
- (2) In the application of sections 178(2) and 179(5) to an offence under this section where the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of an officer of the entity or is attributable to any neglect on the part of an officer of the entity, the references in those provisions to an officer of an entity include references to any person who, at the time of the commission of the offence—

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

- (a) was (within the meaning of section 93) a senior manager of the entity in relation to the activities of the entity in the course of which the offence was committed; or
  - (b) was a person purporting to act in such a capacity.
- (3) A person who commits an offence under this section is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine (or both).
- (4) In this section, "relevant duty" means a duty provided for by section 11 of this Act."

Member's explanatory statement

This new clause makes it an offence for the provider of a user-to-service not to comply with the safety duties protecting children set out in clause 11. Where the offence is committed with the consent or connivance of a senior manager or other officer of the provider, or is attributable to their neglect, the officer, as well as the entity, is guilty of the offence.

NC3

To move the following Clause—

“Child user empowerment duties

- (1) This section sets out the duties to empower child users which apply in relation to Category 1 services.
- (2) A duty to include in a service, to the extent that it is proportionate to do so, features which child users may use or apply if they wish to increase their control over harmful content.
- (3) The features referred to in subsection (2) are those which, if used or applied by a user, result in the use by the service of systems or processes designed to—
  - (a) reduce the likelihood of the user encountering priority content that is harmful, or particular kinds of such content, by means of the service, or
  - (b) alert the user to the harmful nature of priority content that is harmful

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill that the user may encounter by means of the service.

- (4) A duty to ensure that all features included in a service in compliance with the duty set out in subsection (2) are made available to all child users.
- (5) A duty to include clear and accessible provisions in the terms of service specifying which features are offered in compliance with the duty set out in subsection (2), and how users may take advantage of them.
- (6) A duty to include in a service features which child users may use or apply if they wish to filter out non-verified users.
- (7) The features referred to in subsection (6) are those which, if used or applied by a user, result in the use by the service of systems or processes designed to—
  - (a) prevent non-verified users from interacting with content which that user generates, uploads or shares on the service, and

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

- (b) reduce the likelihood of that user encountering content which non-verified users generate, upload or share on the service.
- (8) A duty to include in a service features which child users may use or apply if they wish to only encounter content by users they have approved.
- (9) A duty to include in a service features which child users may use or apply if they wish to filter out private messages from—
- (a) non-verified users, or
  - (b) adult users, or
  - (c) any user other than those on a list approved by the child user.
- (10) In determining what is proportionate for the purposes of subsection (2), the following factors, in particular, are relevant—
- (a) all the findings of the most recent child risk assessment (including as to levels of risk and as to nature, and severity, of potential harm), and

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

(b) the size and capacity of the provider of a service.

(11) In this section “non-verified user” means a user who has not verified their identity to the provider of a service (see section 57(1)).

(12) In this section references to features include references to functionalities and settings.”

Alex Davies-Jones

NC4

To move the following Clause—

“Safety duties protecting adults and society: minimum standards for terms of service

(1) OFCOM may set minimum standards for the provisions included in a provider’s terms of service as far as they relate to the duties under sections 11, [Harm to adults and society risk assessment duties], [Safety duties protecting adults and society], 12, 16 to 19 and 28 of this Act (“relevant duties”).

- (2) Where a provider does not meet the minimum standards, OFCOM may direct the provider to amend its terms of service in order to ensure that the standards are met.
- (3) OFCOM must, at least once a year, conduct a review of—
  - (a) the extent to which providers are meeting the minimum standards, and
  - (b) how the providers’ terms of service are enabling them to fulfil the relevant duties.
- (4) The report must assess whether any provider has made changes to its terms of service that might affect the way it fulfils a relevant duty.
- (5) OFCOM must lay a report on the first review before both Houses of Parliament within one year of this Act being passed.

- (6) OFCOM must lay a report on each subsequent review at least once a year thereafter.”

Alex Davies-Jones

NC5

To move the following Clause—

“Harm to adult and society risk assessment duties

- (1) This section sets out the duties about risk assessments which apply in relation to Category 1 services (in addition to the duties about risk assessments set out in section 8 and, in the case of Category 1 services likely to be accessed by children, section 10).
- (2) A duty to carry out a suitable and sufficient harm to adults and society risk assessment at a time set out in, or as provided by, Schedule 3.
- (3) A duty to take appropriate steps to keep an harm to adults and society risk assessment up to date, including when

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

OFCOM make any significant change to a risk profile that relates to services of the kind in question.

- (4) Before making any significant change to any aspect of a service's design or operation, a duty to carry out a further suitable and sufficient harm to adults and society risk assessment relating to the impacts of that proposed change.
- (5) A "harm to adults and society risk assessment" of a service of a particular kind means an assessment of the following matters, taking into account the risk profile that relates to services of that kind—
  - (a) the user base;
  - (b) the level of risk of adults who are users of the service encountering, by means of the service, each kind of priority content that is harmful to adults and society (with each kind separately assessed), taking into account (in particular) algorithms used by the service, and how easily, quickly and widely content may be disseminated by means of the service;

(c) the level of risk of harm to adults and society presented by different kinds of priority content that is harmful to adults and society;

(d) the level of risk of harm to adults and society presented by priority content that is harmful to adults and society which particularly affects individuals with a certain characteristic or members of a certain group;

(e) the level of risk of functionalities of the service facilitating the presence or dissemination of priority content that is harmful to adults and society, identifying and assessing those functionalities that present higher levels of risk;

(f) the different ways in which the service is used, and the impact of such use on the level of risk of harm that might be suffered by adults and society;

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

- (g) the nature, and severity, of the harm that might be suffered by adults and society from the matters identified in accordance with paragraphs (b) to (f);
  - (h) how the design and operation of the service (including the business model, governance, use of proactive technology, measures to promote users' media literacy and safe use of the service, and other systems and processes) may reduce or increase the risks identified.
- (6) In this section references to risk profiles are to the risk profiles for the time being published under section 85 which relate to the risk of harm to adults and society presented by priority content that is harmful to adults and society.
- (7) See also—
- (a) section 19(2) (records of risk assessments), and

NC6

To move the following Clause—

“Safety duties protecting adults and society

- (1) This section sets out the duties to prevent harms to adults and society which apply in relation to Category 1 services.
- (2) A duty to summarise in the terms of service the findings of the most recent adults and society risk assessment of a service (including as to levels of risk and as to nature, and severity, of potential harm to adults and society).
- (3) If a provider decides to treat a kind of priority content that is harmful to adults and society in a way described in subsection (4), a duty to include provisions in the terms of service specifying how that kind of content is to be treated (separately covering each kind of priority content that is harmful to adults and society which a provider decides to treat in one of those ways).

- (4) These are the kinds of treatment of content referred to in subsection (3)—
  - (a) taking down the content;
  - (b) restricting users' access to the content;
  - (c) limiting the recommendation or promotion of the content;
  - (d) recommending or promoting the content;
  - (e) allowing the content without treating it in a way described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d).
- (5) A duty to explain in the terms of service the provider's response to the risks relating to priority content that is harmful to adults and society (as identified in the most recent adults and society risk assessment of the service), by reference to—

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

- (a) any provisions of the terms of service included in compliance with the duty set out in subsection (3), and
  - (b) any other provisions of the terms of service designed to mitigate or manage those risks.
- (6) If provisions are included in the terms of service in compliance with the duty set out in subsection (3), a duty to ensure that those provisions—
  - (a) are clear and accessible, and
  - (b) are applied consistently.
- (7) If the provider of a service becomes aware of any non-designated content that is harmful to adults and society present on the service, a duty to notify OFCOM of—
  - (a) the kinds of such content identified, and
  - (b) the incidence of those kinds of content on the service.
- (8) In this section—

“harm to adults and society risk assessment” has the meaning given by section [harm

to adults and society risk assessment duties];

“non-designated content that is harmful to adults and society” means content that is harmful to adults and society other than priority content that is harmful to adults and society.

(9) See also, in relation to duties set out in this section, section 18 (duties about freedom of expression and privacy).”

Alex Davies-Jones

NC7

To move the following Clause—

““Content that is harmful to adults and society” etc

(1) This section applies for the purposes of this Part.

(2) “Priority content that is harmful to adults and society” means content of a description designated in regulations made by the Secretary of State as priority content that is harmful to adults and society.

(3) “Content that is harmful to adults and society” means—

(a) priority content that is harmful to adults and society, or

(b) content, not within paragraph (a), of a kind which presents a material risk of significant harm to an appreciable number of adults in the United Kingdom.

(4) For the purposes of this section—

(a) illegal content (see section 53) is not to be regarded as within subsection (3)(b), and

(b) content is not to be regarded as within subsection (3)(b) if the risk of harm flows from—

(i) the content’s potential financial impact,

(ii) the safety or quality of goods featured in the content, or

All line references relate to the large font accessible version of the Bill

- (iii) the way in which a service featured in the content may be performed (for example, in the case of the performance of a service by a person not qualified to perform it).
- (5) References to “priority content that is harmful to adults and society” and “content that is harmful to adults and society” are to be read as—
  - (a) limited to content within the definition in question that is regulated user-generated content in relation to a regulated userto-user service, and
  - (b) including material which, if it were present on a regulated userto-user service, would be content within paragraph (a) (and this section is to be read with such modifications as may be necessary for the purpose of this paragraph).
- (6) Sections 55 and 56 contain further provision about regulations made under this section.”
