2. EUROPEAN UNION (NOTIFICATION OF WITHDRAWAL) BILL: SECOND READING (DAY 1)*Until midnight (if the 7.00pm Business of the House Motion is agreed to)Caroline Lucas*Stephen Gethins*Mark Durkan*Ms Margaret Ritchie*Dr Alasdair McDonnell*Hywel Williams

Liz Saville Roberts

Jonathan Edwards

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill because it fails to provide enduring legal protection to the economic and social interests of the people of the United Kingdom in the event of exit from the European Union, fails in particular to guarantee the UK's future membership of both the Single Market and the customs union, essential to the future prosperity of the UK, thereby failing to ensure continuation of free movement and the existing reciprocal rights enjoyed by EU citizens living in the UK and UK citizens living in EU member states, fails to guarantee maintenance of environmental regulation at least as strong as current EU regulation, fails to prevent a race to the bottom on corporate taxation and on workers' and consumers' rights, fails to guarantee young people rights to work, travel and study in the EU at least equal to those they enjoy now, otherwise fails to adequately address the immense constitutional implications of withdrawal from the EU, including the future of the Good Friday Agreement, fails to adequately address the almost certain need for a transitional arrangement with the EU, and fails to guarantee a Ratification Referendum on any withdrawal agreements negotiated with the other EU member states.

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill as the Government has set out no provision for effective consultation with the devolved administrations on implementing Article 50, has yet to publish a White Paper detailing the Government's policy proposals, has refused to give a guarantee on the position of EU nationals in the UK, has left unanswered a range of detailed questions covering many policy areas about the full implications of withdrawal from the single market and has provided no assurance that a future parliamentary vote will be anything other than irrelevant, as withdrawal from the European Union followed two years after the invoking of Article 50 if agreement is not reached in the forthcoming negotiations, unless they are prolonged by unanimity.

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill because the Government has failed to give assurances which safeguard British interests in the single market, and because the Government has failed to provide assurance that either Parliament or the UK electorate will have the ability to determine whether the UK should seek to withdraw from the single market in accordance with Article 127 of the EEA Agreement.

Tim Farron

Mr Nick Clegg

Tom Brake

Mr Alistair Carmichael

Sarah Olney

John Pugh

Mr Mark Williams

That this House declines to give the European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill a Second Reading because it does not provide a mechanism for the people of the United Kingdom to have a vote, prior to the UK's departure from the European Union, on the terms of the new relationship between the United Kingdom and the European Union, because the Government has failed to provide an accompanying white paper detailing a plan or set of principles upon which the United Kingdom Government will seek to negotiate with the European Union, and because the Government has deliberately not tabled a money resolution in respect of this Bill, thereby hampering the elected representatives of the people from amending the Bill to include issues at the heart of public concerns with Brexit.

Jonathan Edwards
Peter Grant
Caroline Lucas
Mark Durkan

Ms Margaret Ritchie

Dr Alasdair McDonnell

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill as the Government has failed to ensure continued full and unfettered access to the European single market, through participation in the EEA and membership of the EFTA, and has set out no requirement for the implementation of Article 50 to be endorsed by the devolved Parliaments.
