

OFFENDER MANAGEMENT BILL

EXPLANATORY NOTES

INTRODUCTION

1. These explanatory notes relate to the Offender Management Bill as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007. They have been prepared by the Home Office in order to assist the reader of the Bill and to help inform debate on it. They do not form part of the Bill and have not been endorsed by Parliament.

2. The notes need to be read in conjunction with the Bill. They are not, and are not meant to be, a comprehensive description of the Bill. Where a clause or part of a clause does not seem to require any explanation or comment, none is given.

SUMMARY AND BACKGROUND

3. In December 2003, Lord Carter published his report, “Managing Offenders, Reducing Crime”, which recommended the establishment of a National Offender Management Service (NOMS) with the aim of reducing re-offending through more consistent and effective offender management. A key recommendation of the report was that more effective service delivery could be achieved through greater use of competition from private and voluntary providers, and through a separation of the line-management of public sector providers and the commissioning of services. In January 2004, the Government published its response, “Reducing Crime, Changing Lives”, which broadly accepted Lord Carter’s conclusions, and NOMS was established in June 2004.

4. Under the current legislation the statutory duty to make arrangements for the provision of probation services rests exclusively with the local probation board. Probation services cannot currently be provided by any other organisation unless sub-contracted directly by probation boards themselves. This Bill will transfer to the Secretary of State the statutory duty to make arrangements to provide probation services, so enabling him to commission from providers in the public, private and voluntary sector. It will establish probation trusts, as public sector providers with whom he may make such arrangements. The Secretary of State may contract only with a probation trust or other public body for the giving of assistance to courts.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

5. The initial proposals for these changes were set out in “Restructuring Probation to Reduce Re-offending” in October 2005. The responses, along with the Government’s proposals for taking the policy forward, were published in March 2006 in “Working with Probation to Protect the Public and Reduce Re-offending”. The Government’s intention to introduce greater diversity of provision was reiterated in both “A Five Year Strategy for Protecting the Public and Reducing Re-offending” (published in February 2006) and “Rebalancing the criminal justice system in favour of the law-abiding majority” (July 2006). In August 2006, the Government published “Improving Prison and Probation Services: Public Value Partnerships”, which outlined the vision for contestability and indicated the pace and scale of change envisaged. A consultation document on the establishment of probation trusts was issued on 13th February 2007.

6. The Bill will also:

- enable information to be shared between relevant bodies and persons for offender management purposes;
- remove some of the inconsistencies between the powers of staff in public and private custodial institutions;
- reform existing offences of bringing articles into prison;
- remove the requirement for the appointment of a prison medical officer;
- make technical amendments to enable more efficient management of juvenile offenders sentenced to custody; and
- introduce polygraph testing of sex offenders on licence from a sentence of imprisonment of 12 months or more.

TERRITORIAL EXTENT

7. The Bill generally applies to England and Wales only. Some repeals and consequential amendments also extend to Scotland and Northern Ireland, as does the power in clause 35 to make consequential amendments.

THE BILL

8. The Bill is in four Parts.

Part 1 – New arrangements for the provision of probation services

9. Clauses 1 to 10 make new arrangements for the provision of probation services. They give to the Secretary of State the responsibility to ensure the provision of probation services and enable him to contract with others to do this. The clauses also abolish local probation boards and allow the establishment of probation trusts with whom he may contract.

10. Clause 11 makes it clear that the Secretary of State, bodies dealing with offender management and other entities with an interest in offender management may engage in

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

reciprocal information sharing. Under the clause, information sharing may take place so long as it is necessary or expedient for the purposes of effective management of offenders.

11. Clause 12 provides a power to repeal clause 4.

Part 2 – Prisons

12. Clauses 13 to 17 remove some of the differences in the ways in which contracted-out prisons operate by giving their directors and prisoner custody officers powers comparable to those which governors and prison officers in directly-managed prisons already possess. Clauses 18 to 21 reform the existing offence of bringing proscribed articles into a prison and create a new offence of taking photographic images inside a prison. Clause 22 removes the requirement for prisons to have a medical officer. Clause 23 clarifies who may be authorised to undertake limited searches of prisoners.

Part 3 – Other provisions about the Management of Offenders

13. Clauses 24 to 26 provide for polygraph testing of offenders on licence from a sentence of imprisonment of 12 months or more for a specified sexual offence, describe the conditions under which polygraph testing may take place and set out that evidence obtained from polygraph testing cannot be used in criminal proceedings.

14. Clause 27 amends section 202 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 to allow the Secretary of State to accredit programmes for the purposes of programme requirements.

15. Clause 28 amends section 41 of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 to allow the Secretary of State to ask the Youth Justice Board to assist him in the exercise of certain functions and it also provides that the Secretary of State may restrict the way in which the Youth Justice Board exercises certain functions.

16. Clause 29 amends the arrangements for early release from the custodial part of the Detention and Training Order.

17. Clause 30 widens the category of accommodation in which a period of detention and training may be served.

18. Clause 31 enables the Secretary of State to direct that a term of detention under section 90 or 91 of the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 or section 226 or 228 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 may be treated as a sentence of imprisonment when the offender has reached the age of 18.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

19. Clause 32 extends the provisions of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 with regard to the authority for transporting detained young persons between relevant premises.

COMMENTARY ON CLAUSES

PART 1: PROBATION SERVICES

Clause 1: Meaning of “the probation purposes”

20. This clause sets out various purposes that govern the probation services that are to be provided under Part 1.

21. Subsection (1) defines “the probation purposes.” It broadly replicates the existing provisions in the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 (“the 2000 Act”), as supplemented by the Local Probation Boards (Miscellaneous Provisions) Regulations 2001 (S.I. 2001/786) and as amended to reflect provisions on conditional cautions in the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

22. Subsection (2) adds further detail to the general purposes and is also based on the 2000 Act as amended. Subsection (2)(b) is new and puts beyond doubt that the provisions also cover the work which providers of probation services do in relation to offenders in prison.

23. Subsection (3) is new and clarifies that the probation purposes include the supervision and rehabilitation of persons convicted of an offence outside England and Wales who are serving all or part of their sentence in England and Wales.

24. Subsection (4) defines the terms “authorised person”, “conditional caution”, “community order”, “suspended sentence order” and “victim” which are used in this clause.

25. Subsection (5) enables the Secretary of State to extend these purposes by regulations which will be subject to the negative resolution procedure.

Clause 2: Responsibility for ensuring the provision of probation services

26. This clause sets out the functions of the Secretary of State.

27. Subsection (1) states that it is the function of the Secretary of State to ensure that sufficient provision is made for probation purposes (as described in the previous clause) and for probation functions of the Secretary of State in other legislation. Similar functions to those set out in this section currently rest with local probation boards under section 5 of the 2000 Act.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

28. Subsection (2) states that the Secretary of State is to discharge his function in relation to any probation provision by making arrangements under clause 3. Those arrangements will normally involve the making of contracts with a provider of services, but there is also the possibility of non-contractual arrangements or of the services being provided by the Secretary of State.

29. Subsection (3) requires the Secretary of State to have regard to aims in the exercise of his probation functions under subsections (1) and (2).

30. Subsection (4) sets out those aims, which replicate the ones currently set out in section 2(2) of the 2000 Act

31. Subsection (5) makes clear that the Secretary of State does not need to take action under this clause in relation to any particular probation service if he is satisfied that adequate provision will be made under other arrangements.

32. Subsection (6) requires the Secretary of State to consult at least once a year on the probation provision to be made for the following year. It is envisaged that consultation will be conducted through regional commissioners and that those consulted will include stakeholders at regional and local level, including sentencers, providers of probation services, providers of custodial services, other criminal justice agencies, local authorities and bodies involved in the provision of services which contribute to the reduction of re-offending.

Clause 3: Power to make arrangements for the provision of probation services

33. This clause gives details of how the Secretary of State will make arrangements for the provision of probation services.

34. Subsection (1) states that this section applies to any probation provision which the Secretary of State considers should be made under section 2(1).

35. Subsection (2) states that the Secretary of State may make contractual or other arrangements with any other person for the making of any probation provision. In most cases, it is envisaged that arrangements will be made under contract but this subsection does allow for other possibilities.

36. Subsection (3) clarifies that contractual or other arrangements may require or authorise the other party to:

- co-operate with other providers of probation services or persons concerned with crime prevention or reduction or with assisting victims;
- designate individuals as officers of a provider of probation services (subsequently defined in clause 7);
- sub-contract with third parties.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

37. Subsection (4) enables the Secretary of State, if he considers it appropriate, to provide probation services himself, acting through any members of his staff, including prison officers. In most cases, it is anticipated that the Secretary of State will make arrangements with others to deliver probation services but this makes it possible for prison staff, for example, to deliver probation services in the community. This could be helpful in terms of bridging the gap between custody and the community.

38. Subsection (5) defines providers of probation purposes as either the person with whom the Secretary of State makes arrangements or the Secretary of State, where he makes provision through members of his staff.

Clause 4: Restrictions on certain arrangements under section 3(2)

39. Clause 4 places a restriction on the ability of the Secretary of State to make contractual or other arrangements under section 3(2).

40. Subsection (1) states that contractual or other arrangements relating to restricted probation provision may only be made with a probation trust or other public body.

41. Subsection (2) defines restricted probation provision as the giving of assistance to courts in determining the appropriate sentence to pass, or making any other decision, in respect of a person charged with or convicted of an offence.

Clause 5: Power to establish probation trusts

42. This clause gives details of the Secretary of State's power to establish probation trusts.

43. Subsection (1) states that the Secretary of State may, by order:

- establish a trust for purposes specified in the order;
- alter the name or purposes of a probation trust;
- dissolve a probation trust.

It is not envisaged that any geographical area for which a trust is to act will be specified in the order establishing the trust. This will be a matter for the contract agreed with the Secretary of State.

44. Subsection (2) specifies that the purposes of a probation trust must consist of, or include, the making or performance by the trusts of contracts with the Secretary of State in line with clause 3(2).

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

45. Subsection (3)(a) specifies that the purposes may also enable the trust to enter into contracts with parties other than the Secretary of State for the provision of probation services. In practice, it is envisaged that the majority of a trust's activity will be under contract to commissioners acting on behalf of the Home Secretary, but this subsection allows trusts the flexibility to enter into contracts with others, including other probation trusts, where appropriate, provided that the activity concerned is part of their core purposes.

46. Subsection (3)(b) specifies that these contracts may also cover probation-related activities in relation to service courts.

47. Subsection (3)(c) provides that the purposes of a probation trust may also include any other purposes specified in regulations made by the Secretary of State.

48. Subsection (4) clarifies that the purposes set out in the order may be expressed in more specific terms than those used in subsection (2) and (3).

49. Subsection (5) clarifies that a trust may carry out activities relating to contracts, including before and after contracts are agreed; this enables it to bid for and negotiate contracts in the first place and to carry out any activities necessary to wind up business after a contract has expired.

Clause 6: Power to make grants for probation purposes

50. This clause enables the Secretary of State to make payments (other than under the contractual or other arrangements referred to in clause 3) to a trust or any other person for the section 1 purposes. It is envisaged that contractual or other arrangements will be the main source of probation funding but this clause allows for situations where this may not be appropriate; a possible example might be a pilot or research project.

51. Subsection (2) makes clear that the Secretary of State may attach conditions to such grant payments.

Clause 7: Officers of providers of probation services

52. Existing legislation (e.g. section 2(1)(b) of the 2000 Act) refers to "officers of local probation boards". As local probation boards are abolished, a new term is needed. This clause sets out provisions relating to "officers of providers of probation services".

53. Subsection (1) defines an "officer of a provider of probation services" as an individual who is for the time being authorised to carry out the functions of an officer of a particular provider of probation services.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

54. Under subsections (2) and (3) an individual may be authorised as an officer of a provider of probation services by the Secretary of State or (where the provider is not the Secretary of State) by a provider of probation services who has been authorised to do so.

55. Subsection (4) defines the functions referred to in subsection (1).

Clause 8: Abolition of local probation boards and transfers of property etc and staff

56. Subsection (1) provides for the abolition of local probation boards constituted under section 4 of the 2000 Act.

57. Subsection (2) gives effect to Schedule 2 which contains provisions relating to transfers of property etc or staff in connection with the abolition of local probation boards or the implementation or termination of arrangements under clause 3.

Clause 9: The inspectorate

58. This clause makes consequential amendments to the provisions establishing the Inspectorate of the National Probation Service to reflect the fact that the National Probation Service will cease to exist when the local probation boards are abolished and that the inspectorate will in future need to inspect a range of providers of probation services.

59. Subsection (1) renames Her Majesty's Inspectorate of the National Probation Service for England and Wales "Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Probation for England and Wales", and renames its Chief Inspector "Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Probation for England and Wales".

60. Subsection (3)(a) amends section 7 of the 2000 Act to include the inspection of the provision of probation services under clause 3. Subsection (3)(b) makes an amendment to allow the Secretary of State to give further directions related to the probation purposes referred to in Clause 1, conferring further functions on the inspectorate.

Clause 10: Approved premises

61. This clause sets out provisions relating to approved premises. It is closely based on existing provision in section 9 of the 2000 Act.

62. Subsection (1) is based on section 9(1) of the 2000 Act. It enables the Secretary of State to approve premises providing accommodation for persons on bail or for the supervision or rehabilitation of offenders.

63. Subsection (2) enables the Secretary of State to make regulations concerning approved premises. This subsection is based on section 9(3) of the 2000 Act, under which the Criminal

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

Justice and Court Services Act 2000 (Approved Premises) Regulations 2001 (S.I.2001/850) were made.

64. Subsection (3) enables the Secretary of State to make payments in relation to the operation of approved premises. They may also make payments in relation to their construction, enlargement or improvement if they are approved premises already or the works are being carried out with a view to their approval.

65. Subsection (4) is additional to the provision in the 2000 Act and makes clear that the Secretary of State may attach conditions to the payments in subsection (3).

66. Subsection (5) clarifies that subsection (3) does not prevent the Secretary of State from using his powers under clauses 2 to 6 to commission new premises and the running of them.

67. Subsection (6) clarifies that references in other enactments to an approved bail hostel or approved probation hostel are to be read as a reference to approved premises. This replicates subsection (2) of the 2000 Act.

68. Subsection (7) makes a consequential amendment to paragraph 2(7) of Schedule 2 to the Private Security Industry Act 2001 to make clear that those involved in the management of approved premises, who may need to determine who has access to those premises, are not caught by the licensing requirements applicable to manned guards.

Clause 11: Disclosure for offender management purposes

69. This clause clarifies the powers of certain bodies to share data for any purpose mentioned in subsection (4).

70. Subsections (1) and (2) list the entities who are able to benefit from the power to share data.

71. Subsection (3) provides the power to share data but only if the disclosure is necessary or expedient for purposes mentioned in subsection (4). That enables the bodies listed in subsection (1) to share data with one another. It also enables disclosure between those bodies and the bodies listed in subsection (2). The clause has no application to disclosures between bodies listed in subsection (2), but there may be powers elsewhere that cover these.

72. Subsection (4) specifies the purposes for which disclosures are permitted by the clause. These include “the probation purposes (see clause 1), “the performance of functions of the Secretary of State, other persons to whom clause 11 applies and persons listed in subsection (2), provided the functions relate to prisons or prisoners, and other purposes connected with the management of offenders.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

73. Subsection (5) expands upon the meaning of functions, prisons, and prisoners, and confirms that young offender institutions and secure training centres, together with those persons detained within them, are treated as prisons or prisoners.

74. Subsection (6) confirms that the power to exchange information by virtue of this clause does not affect any existing power to share data that exists independently of the clause (e.g. section 34 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (c.15)) and that any such exchange is subject to the existing safeguards regarding data protection.

75. Subsection (7) creates a power for the Secretary of State to amend any enactment which would otherwise prevent the sharing of data permitted by this clause. Clause 33 provides that this order making power is subject to the affirmative resolution procedure.

76. Subsection (9) defines relevant contractor for the purposes of subsection (2) and confirms that those contracted to provide prison, young offender institution, secure training centre and related escort services are within the ambit of the clause.

77. Subsection (10) defines “enactment” for the purposes of subsection (6) so as to include any subordinate legislation within the meaning of the Interpretation Act 1978.

Clause 12: Powers to repeal section 4

78. Clause 12 provides a power for the Secretary of State to repeal clause 4 by order which (by virtue of clause 33) will be subject to affirmative resolution.

PART 2: PRISONS

Clause 13: Power of search in contracted out prisons and secure training centres

79. Subsection (1) of this clause amends section 86(2) of the 1991 Act which prevents prisoner custody officers performing custodial duties at a contracted-out prison from conducting anything more than a “rub-down” search of a visitor. The amendment removes this restriction and allows a prisoner custody officer to require a visitor he wishes to search to remove an item of clothing which is not only an outer coat, jacket or gloves. However, the amendment makes clear that a prisoner custody officer shall not be able to require that an intimate search is carried out. This subsection also amends section 86 by clarifying that the power to search will be exercised in line with relevant Prison Rules and Young Offender Institution Rules.

80. Subsection (2), amends section 9 of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 by removing an equivalent restriction placed upon a custody officer at a secure training centre and expands his power to search in line with subsection (1). Subsection (2)(a) provides that

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

the power to search will be exercised in accordance with relevant Secure Training Centre Rules.

Clause 14: Power of detention in contracted out prisons and secure training centres

81. Subsection (1) of this clause amends the Criminal Justice Act 1991 by inserting a new section 86A. This gives a prisoner custody officer the power to require a visitor to wait with him where that officer believes the visitor has committed an offence under sections 39 to 40D of the Prison Act 1952 or an offence of attempting, inciting, conspiring or aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of such an offence.

82. The new section 86A enables the requirement to wait to be imposed solely in order to enable a constable to arrive. It also makes clear that the period for which a visitor may be required to wait shall be for so long as is necessary for a constable to arrive and, in any event, shall not exceed two hours. Section 86A also enables the prisoner custody officer to use reasonable force to prevent the visitor whom he has detained from making off. Further, it provides that a person who makes off when required by a prisoner custody officer to wait with him will be guilty of an offence and liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale.

83. Subsection (2) ensures that the new section 86A power to detain extends to a prisoner custody officer performing contracted out functions at a directly managed prison.

84. Subsection (3) amends the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 by inserting a new section 9A which gives a custody officer in a secure training centre a power to detain, equivalent to that in the new section 86A of the 1991 Act.

85. Subsection (4) makes clear that the new section 9A power extends to a custody officer performing contracted out functions at a directly managed secure training centre.

Clause 15: Powers of authorised persons to perform custodial duties and search prisoners

86. Subsection (2) of this clause amends the Criminal Justice Act 1991 further by inserting a new section 86B.

87. Section 86B provides a mechanism for authorising a person working at a contracted out prison who is not a prisoner custody officer to perform restricted activities. Such activities are those that would involve the performance by the worker of a custodial duty. A custodial duty can only be performed by prisoner custody officers, owing to the effect of section 85(1) of the 1991 Act.

88. The new section 86B enables the Secretary of State to specify in an order subject to negative procedure the activities that a worker may be authorised to carry out. The director of a prison in which that worker is working may then authorise a worker to carry out one or more of the listed restricted activities. Any authorisation may be limited or given in general or specific terms and be given either to individuals or a defined class of persons. Finally, none of the powers conferred by the section permit the use of force by a worker when carrying out a restricted activity.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

89. Subsection (3) provides that section 85(1) of the 1991 Act, which requires custodial duties to be performed only by a prisoner custody officer takes effect subject to the new section 86B.

Clause 16: Powers of director of a contracted out prison

90. This clause removes the prohibition in section 85(3) of the Criminal Justice Act 1991 that prevents a director in a contracted-out prison from exercising certain adjudication and segregation functions. The effect of this amendment is that a director, rather than a controller (who is employed by the Home Office and currently exercises the functions in question) will be able to inquire into a disciplinary charge laid against a prisoner, conduct the hearing of a charge or make an award in respect of any charge. All such proceedings will take place in accordance with the Prison Rules or the Young Offender Institution Rules, as appropriate. By virtue of the amendments made by this clause a director will also be able to segregate prisoners, temporarily confine prisoners or apply special controls or restraints in non-urgent situations.

Clause 17: Amendment of section 87 of Criminal Justice Act 1991

91. This clause makes two small amendments to section 87 of the Criminal Justice Act 1991. The principal effect of the clause is to enable the search powers vested in “authorised employees” under section 8A of the 1991 Act, together with the mechanism for authorising those searches, to apply in a contracted-out prison. Accordingly a director of such a prison will be able to authorise employees who are not prisoner custody officers to carry out “rub down” searches in accordance with section 8A.

Clause 18: Assisting a prisoner to escape

92. This clause replaces section 39 of the Prison Act 1952 with a new section 39 to bring the terminology up-to-date and more in line with the new sections contained in clause 19.

Clause 19: Conveyance of prohibited articles into or out of prison

93. This clause replaces section 40 of the Prison Act 1952 with new sections 40A, 40B and 40C. These new sections clarify the existing law, make changes to the penalties and mode of trial for certain offences and create new offences of taking mobile phones, sound recording devices and cameras into a prison.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

94. New section 40A defines the categories of articles which are referred to in sections 40B and 40C. There are 3 groups (described as List A, List B and List C) of prohibited items. Subsection (2) provides for List A (dangerous articles and controlled drugs). Subsection (3) provides for List B articles (alcohol, mobile telephones, cameras and sound-recording devices). Subsection (4) defines “camera” and “sound-recording device”. Subsection (5) provides for List C items which include any article or substance prescribed by prison rules. Subsection (6) enables the Secretary of State to amend new section 40A by adding, repealing or modifying an entry to List A or B or any provision for the interpretation of the section.

95. New section 40B makes it an offence to convey List A articles into or out of prison without authorisation. Subsection (1) details the type of conduct which is covered by the new offence. Subsections (2) to (5) define authorisation and detail how the authorisation may be given and by whom. Subsection (6) sets out the maximum penalty and mode of trial for the new offence.

96. New section 40C makes it an offence to convey List B or C articles into or out of prison. Subsections (1) (List B) and (2) (List C) detail the type of conduct which is prohibited by the new offences. A person commits an offence if he carries out a listed activity without authorisation. Subsection (4) provides for defences where the person reasonably believed he had authorisation or where there was an overriding public interest which justified the doing of the prohibited act. Subsections (5) (List B) and (6) (List C) set out the maximum penalty and mode of trial for the new offences.

97. Clause 19 (2) deals with the Secretary of State’s power to make orders under the Prison Act 1952.

Clause 20: Other offences relating to prison security

98. This clause inserts new sections 40D and 40E to the Prison Act 1952. These new sections create new offences of taking a photograph or making sound recordings within a prison or transmitting images or sounds from a prison without authorisation. It also makes it an offence to take a restricted document out of a prison.

99. New section 40D creates the offence of taking a photograph or making sound recordings in a prison or transmitting any image or sound by electronic communications. Subsection (3) creates offences related to restricted documents. Subsection (4) provides for defences where the person reasonably believed he had authorisation or where there was an overriding public interest which justified the doing of the prohibited act. Subsection (5) sets out the maximum penalty and mode of trial for the new offences.

100. New section 40E gives details of how an authorisation may be given and by whom. It also provides definitions of terms used in the new sections and makes minor repeals of, and consequential amendments to, the Prison Act 1952. Amendments by Order under section 40A(6) relating to List A articles can only be made after a draft order has been laid before and

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

approved by a resolution of each House of Parliament. Where an amendment is only made to List B articles then the order is subject to annulment in Parliament.

Clause 21: Offences under sections 17 and 18: extension of Crown immunity

101. New section 40F extends Crown immunity in relation to offences under new sections 40B, 40C and 40D to designated persons working at a prison. This ensures that all relevant staff can be treated the same in relation to the new offences.

Clause 22: Removal of requirement to appoint a medical officer etc

102. From April 2003, public sector prison health services became the responsibility of the Secretary of State for health under separate existing legal provisions. This clause removes the requirement in the Prison Act 1952 for prisons to appoint a medical officer. The medical officer role was created to reflect custom and practice at the time of incorporating specific managerial and clinical responsibilities within the prison. The role of the medical officer has, in practice, evolved over the years so that it is no longer common practice for managerial responsibilities to be part of the role. In recent years in many cases the purely clinical “prison doctor” role has been undertaken by externally contracted GPs from the NHS.

103. From April 2003, prison health services became the responsibility of the Secretary of State for health under separate existing legal provisions. The NHS, in the form of Primary Care Trusts have now assumed statutory responsibility for local prison health services. The original medical officer role is no longer required.

Clause 23: Amendment of section 8A of the Prison Act 1952

104. This clause makes a small amendment to section 8A of the Prison Act 1952 by providing that a person who is not necessarily an employee of a prison, but who is working there can be authorised to carry out a “rub down search” under section 8A.

PART 3: OTHER PROVISIONS ABOUT OFFENDER MANAGEMENT

Clause 24: Application of polygraph condition to certain licences

105. This clause permits a polygraph condition to be included in the licences of certain offenders convicted of specified sexual offences who are released from custody. Any offender released from custody with such a condition would be required to undertake polygraph tests. Polygraphy is a means of measuring certain physiological responses that may be associated with deception. The purpose of the polygraph test is to monitor whether offenders are complying with their licence conditions or to improve the management of the offender during his release in the community on licence.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

106. Subsection (1) permits the Secretary of State to include a polygraph condition in the licence of a person to whom the clauses apply. The term ‘licence’ refers to the licence issued to certain offenders on release from relevant custodial sentences, which specifies the terms of their conditional release from prison. Current legislation allows certain conditions to be set in release licences – this legislation extends this to enable the addition of a requirement to undertake polygraph testing in the case of offenders serving sentences for relevant sexual offences.

107. Subsection (2) specifies the offenders who may be required to undertake a polygraph test, namely those who have served a relevant custodial sentence for a relevant sexual offence and who are released on licence and are not aged under 18 on the day of release from custody.

108. Subsection (3) defines ‘relevant custodial sentence’ for the purposes of subsection (2).

109. Subsection (4) defines ‘relevant sexual offences’ for the purposes of subsection (2).

110. Subsection (5) amends the Criminal Justice Act 2003 to enable the polygraph condition to be inserted in the licence of a prisoner released under that Act, provided that he meets the requirements of these clauses.

Clause 25: Effect of polygraph condition

111. This Clause sets out the requirements placed on an offender with polygraph testing as a condition of licence, describes a polygraph session and permits the Secretary of State to make rules to govern the conduct of polygraph sessions.

112. Subsection (1) describes the requirements of a polygraph condition. When imposed, such a condition requires an offender to participate in a polygraph session with a view to monitoring his compliance with the other conditions of his licence and improving his management on licence in the community. It also provides that an offender must participate in a polygraph session in accordance with instructions given by the appropriate officer and comply with instructions given him by the polygraph operator.

113. Subsection (2) describes what takes place during a polygraph session. During a polygraph session, the polygraph operator conducts a polygraph examination and interviews the offender in question in preparation or in connection with that examination.

114. Subsection (3) describes a polygraph examination. The polygraph operator questions the offender, and the offender’s answers are recorded. In addition, the physiological reactions of the released offender are measured and recorded by means of equipment approved by the Secretary of State.

115. Subsection (4) defines who is an ‘appropriate officer’ for the purpose of subsection (1)(b).

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

116. Subsection (5) requires appropriate officers to have regard to any guidance issued by the Secretary of State with regard to instructions that an appropriate officer may issue with regard to attendance at polygraph sessions.

117. Subsection (6) enables the Secretary of State to make rules regarding the conduct of polygraph sessions.

118. Subsection (7) states that rules made under subsection (6) may include the qualifications that polygraph operators must satisfy, the way in which records of polygraph sessions are to be kept and the way reports on the results of polygraph sessions are to be prepared.

Clause 26: Use in criminal proceedings of evidence from polygraph sessions

119. This clause provides that any statement made by a person during a polygraph session or any physiological reaction made during such a session may not be used in criminal proceedings in which that person is the defendant.

Clause 27: Accreditation of programmes for purposes of programme requirements

120. Currently section 202 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 makes provision for an ‘accreditation’ body to accredit programmes. The Correctional Services Accreditation Panel (CSAP) is designated as the accreditation body and is an advisory non-departmental public body. The Panel replaced the Prison Service’s General and Sex Offender Treatment Programme Accreditation Panels established by the Prison Service in 1996.

121. The establishment of NOMS has created a different framework for the provision of correctional services. The separation of commissioning from operational delivery has secured the independence from service providers necessary for NOMS to make accreditation decisions itself in relation to offending behaviour programmes. There is therefore no longer a need for an accreditation body that is independent of NOMS and constituted as a non-departmental public body. This clause amends section 202 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003, making provision for the Secretary of State to accredit programmes in place of the accreditation body. Decisions on accreditation will be taken after consulting and receiving advice from an independent non-statutory panel of experts to replace the CSAP.

Clause 28: Functions of Youth Justice Board

122. Section 41 of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 (“the 1998 Act”) deals with the Youth Justice Board. Section 41(5) of the 1998 Act lists the functions of the Youth Justice Board and section 41(6) enables the Secretary of State, by order, to allow the Board to exercise concurrently with him his own functions in relation to the youth justice system. The Youth Justice Board already exercises Secretary of State functions in relation to the placement of offenders sentenced to a Detention and Training Order. Subsection (2) of this clause amends

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

section 41(5) of the 1998 Act to enable the Secretary of State to ask the Board to assist him in carrying out his functions in relation to the release of offenders in youth detention accommodation. Subsection (3) allows the Secretary of State, in an order under section 41(6), to restrict the manner or classes of case in which the Youth Justice Board may exercise functions of his in respect of individual offenders. The Secretary of State is also given power to include in the order supplementary, incidental or consequential provisions.

Clause 29: Detention and training orders: early release

123. This clause introduces an element of flexibility into the arrangements for early release from the custodial part of the Detention and Training Order. Young offenders serving Detention and Training Orders of 8 months or longer may be released one month before the mid-point of their sentence. Those serving orders of 18 months or longer may be released either one or two months before the mid-point. At present, early release, where authorised, must take place exactly one or, where appropriate, two months before the mid-point. If anything happens to prevent this, the young person must remain in custody for a further month (i.e. until the mid-point, or the second early release point in the case of sentences of 18 months or longer).

124. The amendments made by subsection (1) enables the trainee to be released at any point during the last month before the mid-point of the order (or two months, in the case of orders of 18 months or longer).

125. Subsection (2) specifies that this new flexibility will apply to orders made before the clause comes into force as well as those made subsequently.

Clause 30: Accommodation in which period of detention and training to be served

126. Detention and Training Orders are in two parts: the first spent in custody and the second under supervision in the community. At present, the young person (or “trainee”) must be placed, during the custodial part, in one of the types of “secure accommodation” listed in section 107 of the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000.

127. The amendments made by the clause provide that (unless he or she has attained the age of 18) the trainee must be placed in “youth detention accommodation”. This category is wider than the current “secure accommodation”. In future, it will be possible, for example, to place a young person in other forms of local authority accommodation as well as in a secure children’s home. Trainees who are sent back to custody because they have breached the terms of their notice of supervision or committed a further offence during the community part of the order must, unless they have reached 18, also be placed in “youth detention accommodation”.

128. Subsection (7) replaces the list of “secure accommodation” with a new list of “youth detention accommodation”. Subsection (7)(b) adds, as a type of “youth detention accommodation”, secure accommodation provided on behalf of a local authority to the list of

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

allowable types of placement. (Secure accommodation provided by the local authority itself is already on the list.). Subsection (7)(c) removes the requirement that accommodation, directed by the Secretary of State to be “youth detention accommodation”, must be for the purpose of restricting liberty.

129. Once the repeal of the sentence of detention in a Young Offender Institution (under the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000) is brought into force, it is possible that young offender institutions will cease to accommodate 18-20 year olds. It is therefore necessary to make alternative provision for trainees for whom youth detention accommodation is no longer appropriate. Subsection (5) inserts a new section 105A in the 2000 Act which provides that, where a trainee has reached the age of 18, it will be possible for him or her to be detained in a prison at the direction of the Secretary of State.

Clause 31: Conversion of sentence of detention to sentence of imprisonment

130. This clause amends section 99 of the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 which currently enables the Secretary of State to direct that a term of detention under section 90 or 91 of that Act or section 226 or 228 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 may be treated as a sentence of imprisonment, where the offender has reached the age of 21, or where the offender has reached the age of 18 if certain circumstances apply.

131. Subsection (1) provides that the Secretary of State may make such a direction whenever the offender has reached the age of 18. This is to take account of the reduction in the minimum age of imprisonment to 18 (by section 61 of the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 – yet to be commenced). Subsection (1A) provides that the change made by subsection (1) does not affect the Secretary of State’s power to direct that a person detained under section 92 or section 235 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 be detained in a prison.

Clause 32: Escort arrangements

132. Arrangements for conveying juvenile offenders between courts, custodial establishments, police stations and hospitals are currently provided in the Criminal Justice Act 1991 and the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994. This clause extends the provisions of the 1994 Act. It gives authority for the transporting of a greater range of detained young persons between a wider range of types of premises, including young offender institutions, secure training centres and secure children’s homes. Transporting of remanded, as well as sentenced, young people is covered, between any of the types of youth detention accommodation defined in section 107(1) of the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 (as amended by clause 25(7)), as well as courts, police stations and hospitals.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

PART 4: SUPPLEMENTAL

Clause 33: Orders and Regulations

133. This clause sets out the level of parliamentary scrutiny applicable to orders and regulations made under the Act. It does not apply to orders establishing probation trusts and commencement orders which are not subject to any Parliamentary procedure. Save for orders made under clause 12, clause 11(2)(g) or (7) or clause 35(2)(a), which are subject to draft affirmative procedure, orders and regulations will be subject to negative resolution procedure.

Clause 34: Financial Provisions

134. This clause gives the Secretary of State authority to spend money provided by Parliament for the purposes of the Act.

Clause 35: Power to make consequential and transitional provision etc

135. This clause enables the Secretary of State, by order, to make any supplementary, incidental or consequential provision, and any transitional or saving provision which he considers necessary to give full effect to the Act.

Clause 36: Amendments, transitionals and repeals

136. This clause gives effect to Schedules 3, 4 and 5 which deal with minor and consequential amendments, transitional provisions and savings, and repeals respectively.

Clause 37: Extent

137. The Bill forms part of the law of England and Wales only, save for the exceptions listed.

Clause 38: Commencement

138. This clause sets out the arrangements for bringing into force the provisions of the Act.

139. Subsection (1) states that the preceding provisions shall come into force on a day which the Secretary of State may, by order, appoint.

140. Subsection (2) states that different provisions may be brought into force at different times and in different areas.

141. Subsection (3) states that orders under this section may include transitional provisions or savings.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

142. Subsection (4) provides that, unless making provision as set out in subsections (5)(a) and (6), an order made bringing into force anything in sections 24 or 25 (which relate to polygraph testing) will be subject to the affirmative resolution procedure.

143. Under subsection (5)(a), the Secretary of State may by order bring polygraph testing as a condition of licence into force in a specified area for a specified period. Subsection (6) provides that such an order may be amended by a subsequent order so as to extend the period in which polygraph testing as a condition of licence is in force in respect of the specified area.

Clause 39: Short title

144. This clause sets out the short title of the Bill.

COMMENTARY ON THE SCHEDULES

Schedule 1: Probation trusts: further provisions

145. Paragraph 1 states that a probation trust is a body corporate and that its name is that specified in the order. It is envisaged that the order will name the probation trust in accordance with the geographical area in which it is based but without limiting the trust's area of operation to that geographical area (see also note to clause 6).

146. Paragraph 3(1) specifies that a probation trust shall comprise a chairman and no fewer than four other members appointed by the Secretary of State. In practice, we envisage that most trusts will have more members than this but the legislation allows flexibility for the number to vary between trusts and over time, depending on the nature and scale of an individual trust's business. A trust shall also include the chief executive who will become an ex officio member on appointment. Paragraph 3(2) clarifies that, where subsequent provisions refer to an "appointed member" of a trust, this refers to a member appointed by the Secretary of State; it does not include the chief executive.

147. Paragraph 5 states that the Secretary of State shall pay appointed members and pay, or make provision for the payment of, pensions etc. In both cases, the level of such payments is for the Secretary of State to determine. The paragraph also enables, but does not require, the Secretary of State to compensate a member who ceases to hold office (other than on the expiry of his term) if the Secretary of State deems it appropriate.

148. Paragraph 6 states that the members appointed by the Secretary of State shall appoint a chief executive who shall be an employee of the trust and whose terms of employment are for the appointed members to determine (at present the chief officer of a local probation board is appointed by the Secretary of State). But this would not apply if the Secretary of State were to direct the appointment of the first chief executive of the trust and his terms and conditions.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

149. Paragraph 7 sets out the provisions for the appointment of staff. The trust appoints its own staff and sets its own terms and conditions, subject to the proviso (in paragraph 8) which sets out that the determination of terms of employment relating to remuneration, fees or expenses and pensions, allowances or gratuities requires the approval of the Secretary of State unless he directs otherwise. Such a direction may apply to all trusts or to individual ones.

150. Paragraph 9 enables the trust to regulate its own procedure.

151. Paragraph 10 clarifies that the validity of a trust's proceedings are not affected by a vacancy among its members or a defect in the appointment of any member.

152. Paragraph 11 enables a probation trust to authorise an appointed member, a committee, the chief executive or any other member of staff to do anything that the trust would otherwise have to do itself.

153. Paragraph 12 empowers a trust to do anything it thinks necessary to achieve its purposes, except that it may not hold land or borrow or invest money without the general or specific approval of the Secretary of State

154. Paragraph 13 requires a trust to keep proper financial records and prepare an annual statement of accounts, which may be examined by the Comptroller and Auditor General. It makes consequential amendments to the Audit Commission Act 1988, as amended by the 2000 Act, changing references to "local probation boards" to "probation trusts" and requiring trusts to prepare their accounts in accordance with Audit Commission requirements. However, the Bill does not require the Secretary of State to consolidate accounts from the individual trusts for the National Audit Office (as the Home Office does currently for probation boards).

155. Paragraph 14 requires a trust to comply with any general or specific directions given to it by the Secretary of State and to provide the Secretary of State with information if he so directs.

Schedule 2: Transfers of property etc and staff in connection with probation services arrangements

156. Schedule 2 covers certain matters relating to the abolition of local probation boards or the making or termination of any arrangements for the delivery of probation services.

157. Paragraph 1 states that transfer schemes may be made in connection with this and defines "property transfer scheme", "property", "relevant person" and "staff transfer scheme".

158. Paragraphs 2 to 4 deal with property transfer schemes. Paragraph 2 enables the Secretary of State to make a property transfer scheme to transfer to the Secretary of State the

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

property and liabilities of a local probation board, or a relevant person, or to transfer to a relevant person any property or liabilities of the Secretary of State.

159. Paragraph 3 states that a property transfer scheme takes precedence over any other provisions which might restrict transfers. Such compensation for loss of rights or reverter is to be paid by the transferor and/or transferee as appropriate, and the scheme may include a mechanism for resolving disputes over compensation.

160. Paragraph 4 states that any ongoing proceedings or activities relating to the transferor are to be treated as if relating to the transferee when the transfer has taken place.

161. Paragraphs 5 to 10 deal with staff transfer schemes. The policy intention is that staff who transfer between providers of probation services should have their terms and conditions protected by law. In many cases the Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006 will provide the appropriate protection. But, in cases where TUPE does not apply, these paragraphs enable the Secretary of State to make equivalent provision.

162. Paragraph 5 enables the Secretary of State to make a staff transfer scheme to transfer:

- employees of a local probation board to a relevant person;
- employees of one relevant person to another; or
- transfers from providers to the civil service and vice versa.

A scheme may not be made unless any directions about consultation given by the Secretary of State have been complied with.

163. Paragraph 6 deals with transfers between relevant persons or between probation boards and relevant persons and it provides that, when an employee is transferred under the scheme, his continuity of employment is maintained and the rights, duties and liabilities of his previous employer are transferred to the new one. If an employee does not wish to transfer to the new employer, his contract is terminated and he is not to be treated as having been dismissed for the purposes of the Employment Rights Act 1996.

164. Paragraph 7 makes similar provision in relation to employees of probation boards who transfer to the civil service.

165. Paragraph 8 makes similar provision in relation to civil servants who transfer to the employment of a probation trust or other provider.

166. Paragraph 9 makes clear that the Schedule does not prejudice an employee's right to terminate his employment if his working conditions are changed substantially to his detriment.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

167. Paragraph 10 states that, if a contract of employment with either a board or a trust is not transferred to a new employer, the contract is terminated and the employee is treated as having been dismissed for the purposes of the Employment Rights Act 1996.

Schedule 3: Minor and Consequential Amendments

168. Part 1 makes amendments to various Acts consequential on the amendments in clause 30 relating to the accommodation in which a person may be detained under a detention and training order.

169. Part 2 makes changes consequential to the revision by clause 32 of the escort arrangements for young people who are detained, so as to include those remanded or committed to custody and to cover the full range of “youth detention accommodation”.

Schedule 4: Transitional and transitory provisions and savings

170. Paragraph 1 deals with what happens when a chief officer of a local probation board is not appointed chief executive of a probation trust. If a local probation board is abolished under the terms of the Act and the chief officer of that board is not appointed as chief executive of a probation trust before ceasing to hold office as chief officer, the Secretary of State may pay such compensation as he considers appropriate.

171. Paragraph 2 deals with what happens when a chief officer of a local probation board is appointed chief executive of a probation trust. In that case, his continuity of employment is preserved and the period he spent as a chief officer (including any previous service as a chief probation officer with a probation committee) will count as a period of employment with the trust.

172. Paragraph 6 makes clear that the Secretary of State may make an order under clause 35(1) to provide transitional arrangements, in the event that the new escort arrangements in clause 32 are introduced before the sentences of detention in a young offender institution and custody for life are abolished.

173. Paragraph 7 of the Schedule makes transitory provision to cover the possibility that section 59 of the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 (which provides for the abolition of remand centres) does not come into force before the amendment made by paragraph 8(2) of Schedule 3.

Schedule 5: Repeals and revocations

174. This Schedule lists provisions repealed as a consequence of the Act.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

FINANCIAL EFFECTS AND EFFECTS ON PUBLIC SERVICE MANPOWER

175. The Probation Service estimated outturn for 2006/07 is £880m. This estimate includes the cost of local probation boards and the National Probation Directorate. It excludes certain probation related functions that are carried out at NOMS centre such as Public Protection and Finance. The cost of electronic Monitoring is not included in this estimate.

176. The main financial implications arise from implementation of the new arrangements for the provision of probation services in Part 1. Offering other providers the opportunity to demonstrate what they could deliver will incur costs for NOMS in a number of areas, including the administration of procurement exercises, the preparation of providers proposals and commissioner requirements, and the management of contracts and in-house contract compliance. These are both affordable within current allocations and expected to be offset and exceeded by the savings from implementing commissioning with contestability.

177. Using a range of savings rates starting at 3.5% of the value of business contested and taking the upper limit of savings as 8.5% it is anticipated that there will be annual savings of over £2m at 3.5% and around £13m at 8.5%. These figures apply once the programme of contestability is established.

178. It is not envisaged that Parts 2 or 3 of the Bill would have any significant financial effects.

Effects of the Bill on Public Sector Manpower

179. Public sector manpower is not expected to increase as a result of the Bill.

180. The new arrangements for the provision of probation services may result in some public sector staff transferring to the private or voluntary sector. In such circumstances, terms and conditions will be protected by TUPE regulations, or by the equivalent provisions detailed in paragraph 5 of Schedule 2.

SUMMARY OF THE REGULATORY APPRAISAL

181. A regulatory impact assessment is published with the Bill. There are no proposals that have an adverse impact on business. Some additional business opportunities for the small business sector may be created through the increased competition for services.

EUROPEAN CONVENTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS

182. Section 19 of the Human Rights Act 1998 requires the Minister in charge of a Bill in either House of Parliament to make a statement before the Second Reading about the compatibility of the provisions of the Bill with the Convention rights (as defined by section 1

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

of that Act). Minister of State for the Home Department, Baroness Scotland of Asthal, has made the following statement:

In my view the provisions of the Offender Management Bill are compatible with the Convention rights.

Part 1 – New arrangements for the provision of probation services

183. Clauses 1 to 12 abolish local probation boards and give the responsibility for providing probation services to the Secretary of State. These are the legislative provisions necessary to enable the Secretary of State to commission probation services from the best available provider, whether in the public, private or voluntary sectors. Probation trusts will be established as the public sector provider with whom he may contract. Clause 10 deals with approved premises. In most cases the Government expects that probation services commissioned under clause 3(2) are to be regarded as “public functions” for the purposes of section 6 of the Human Rights Act 1998. It is not considered that these clauses give rise to any other ECHR issues.

184. Clause 11 enables the Secretary of State, providers of probation services and their officers, to share information with each other or with the Youth Justice Board, private prison contractors, the police and any person responsible for electronically monitoring an individual. The power applies where it is necessary or expedient for certain specified purposes. Disclosure of information relating to individuals is capable, in individual cases, of engaging the Government’s obligations under article 8 of the ECHR (right to respect to private life). However, the power created by the clause is compatible with those obligations. This is because the clause creates a power to disclose information, not a duty to do so. Accordingly the party proposing to disclose is able to refrain from doing so if he considers that such a disclosure would amount to an unlawful interference with an individual’s article 8 rights. That the clause enables disclosure of information where it is expedient to do so does not undermine the obligation to ensure that a particular disclosure is necessary in pursuit of a legitimate aim in those cases where Article 8 is engaged and interference with that right has been established.

Part 2 – Prisons

185. Powers of search etc. Clauses 13 and 15 confer new powers of search. It is possible that the exercise of these new powers might engage the “right to respect for private life” limb of article 8 ECHR. Such an issue is most likely to arise in relation to exercise of new search powers or where the exercise of these new powers might engage the “correspondence” limb of article 8 ECHR, e.g. where the exercise of the new power authorises the performance of an activity which requires the supervision or observation of a prisoner in the prison or his communications with the outside world. However, it is considered that any interference with the right to respect for private life occasioned by these new powers would be in accordance with the law (because of the provision the Bill makes and also the fact that the procedures adopted will mirror those already operated in public sector prisons, and which have already been found to satisfy the procedural requirements of the ECHR by the European Court of Human Rights) and would be justified by reference to a legitimate aim – that of maintaining good order, protecting the health and security of prisoners and others and, possibly, preventing the commission of a crime. The question of whether any interference is proportionate will always depend on the circumstances of each case.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

186. Powers to detain. Clause 14 amends the Criminal Justice Act 1991 and the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 to enable a prisoner custody officer, or a custody officer, to require a person to wait with him for a period no longer than is necessary for a constable to arrive and, in any event, for no longer than two hours. The Government considers that this requirement to wait does not amount to a deprivation of liberty and therefore does not engage article 5 of the ECHR (the right to liberty and security). However, even if this were not the case and article 5 was engaged, the power does not of itself breach any of the obligations under article 5 in any event. Firstly, the Government takes the view that detention is authorised by Article 5(1)(b) which enables a deprivation of liberty “in order to secure the fulfilment of any obligation prescribed by law”. In the Government’s view a requirement to submit to a search in accordance with the Prison Rules is an obligation prescribed by law as referred to in Article 5(1)(b). Detention may be required in certain circumstances in order to enable a constable to attend a prison to ensure that a visitor fulfils the obligation that a search be carried out. In addition, 5(1)(c) permits an interference with the right to liberty guaranteed by article 5, where that interference is “effected for the purpose of bringing him before the competent legal authority on reasonable suspicion of having committed an offence”. The power provided for in the Bill is squarely within this limb of article 5, as it is clear from the express wording of the clause that a requirement to wait can be imposed by a prisoner custody officer or custody officer only where that officer has reason to believe that a person has committed a prison offence.

187. Prison adjudication powers. Clause 16 enables a director of a contracted out prison to inquire into a disciplinary charge against a prisoner and to order the removal of a prisoner from association with other prisoners, temporarily confining him or imposing any control or restraints. It is not considered that this gives rise to any ECHR issues as the procedures used are not in themselves new and will simply mirror those already in use in public sector prisons.

188. Conveyance of prohibited articles into or out of a prison. Clauses 19, 20 and 21 amend the law relating to taking prohibited articles into and out of a prison by inserting new sections into the Prison Act 1952 and replacing section 40 and repealing section 41. The new section 40D will create the offences of: taking a photograph or making a sound-recording inside a prison; or the transmission of images or sound. That section will also create an offence of removing or transmitting a restricted document from a prison. Both of these offences will only be committed if the person is acting without authorisation. The Government is of the view that the new section 40D could, in certain circumstances, engage

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

and interfere with rights under Article 10. However, the Government believes that the interference would be justified for the following reasons:

- the protection of the security, good order and effective running of the prison;
- the protection of the rights of prison staff and prisoners and visitors;
- the protection of health and morals;
- the prevention of crime or disorder;
- the protection of the integrity of the trial process by avoiding prejudicial media coverage the security of the prison; and the protection of the public.

189. The new section 40B will prohibit the conveyance of dangerous articles like drugs, explosives and weapons and does not therefore engage ECHR rights.

190. The new section 40C will prohibit the conveyance of, amongst other things, cameras, sound-recording devices and mobile phones as well as any other article prescribed by prison rules. These offences will only be committed if the person is acting without authorisation. The Government is of the view that the new section 40C may also engage Article 10 but that this is justifiable for the same reasons as for new section 40D.

191. Abolition of requirement for a medical officer. Clause 22 provides that it is no longer a requirement for there to be a medical officer for every prison. The reason for this change is because the provision of medical care is now contracted out to primary care trusts and the role of medical officers has become redundant. The transfer of services to the NHS complies fully with the European Prison Rules and the UN Basic Principles for the Treatment of Prisoners. It raises no ECHR issues.

Part 3 – Other provisions about offender management

192. Polygraph condition: Clauses 24, 25 and 26 provide the Secretary of State with the power to impose a mandatory polygraphy test condition on the licences of certain released sex offenders. A proposal to conduct mandatory polygraph tests for certain prisoners as a condition of their release on licence is capable of engaging Article 8 ECHR (the right to respect for private life).

193. The Government takes the view that, where such a condition is imposed, the clear benefits for effective offender management will ensure that any interference with an Article 8 right will be necessary in pursuit of a legitimate aim (i.e. the interests of public safety and for the protection of the rights and freedoms of others) for the purposes of Article 8(2). That is particularly the case, given that polygraphy test conditions will only be imposed upon a specific class of serious offender i.e. adults sentenced to 12 months or more for certain sexual offences.

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007 [HL Bill 47]*

194. The Government takes the view that its conclusion is bolstered by the limited use to which test results will be put in practice, along with the prohibition contained in the clause which limits its use in criminal proceedings in which the offender is the defendant.

195. Power to place in prison 18-year-old serving Detention and Training Order. Clause 30(5) gives the Secretary of State power to send people who receive a detention and training order, and who turn 18, to prison and in this regard we note the Joint Committee on Human Rights' findings and recommendations in its Third Report. There will be policy guidelines in place to ensure that transfer to prison takes place only in appropriate cases, with due consideration to the requirements of the ECHR

Part 4 – Supplemental

196. The provisions in Part 4 of the Bill do not give rise to any ECHR issues.

COMMENCEMENT DATE

197. The provisions of the Bill with the exception of sections 38 and 39 will be brought into force by way of a commencement order made by the Secretary of State.

OFFENDER MANAGEMENT BILL

EXPLANATORY NOTES

*These notes refer to the Offender Management Bill
as brought from the House of Commons on 1st March 2007
[HL Bill 47]*

*Ordered to be Printed,
1st March 2007*

© Parliamentary copyright House of Lords 2007

*Applications for reproduction should be made in writing to the Copyright Unit,
Her Majesty's Stationery Office, St. Clements House, 2–16 Colegate, Norwich, NR3 1BQ
Fax 01603 723000*

LONDON: THE STATIONERY OFFICE
Printed in the United Kingdom by
The Stationery Office Limited

£x.00